Plan of Correction

When I brought my client for a doctor's visit [redacted], I had asked the doctor to update only two medications my client is currently taking [redacted]. The doctor discontinued the [redacted]. However, I was not aware that the doctor also ordered a [redacted] which the patient hasn't taken at anytime since [redacted] under my care. I was not aware of that order and no prescription for [redacted] was given to me before we left the office, so such medicine was not reflected in the medication record that was purchased.

[redacted] after my annual inspection, I went back to the doctor's office to clarify such order since patient has never taken [redacted]. He made a note that "It was a mistake", he should have ordered [redacted] instead of [redacted].

In the future, whenever I bring my clients for a doctor's visit, I should check all doctor's notes in the Physician's Record and clarify anything that's not clear before leaving.
