- Remedy an enforcement action
- Eliminate a health hazard
- Are "GREEN" – 20% required

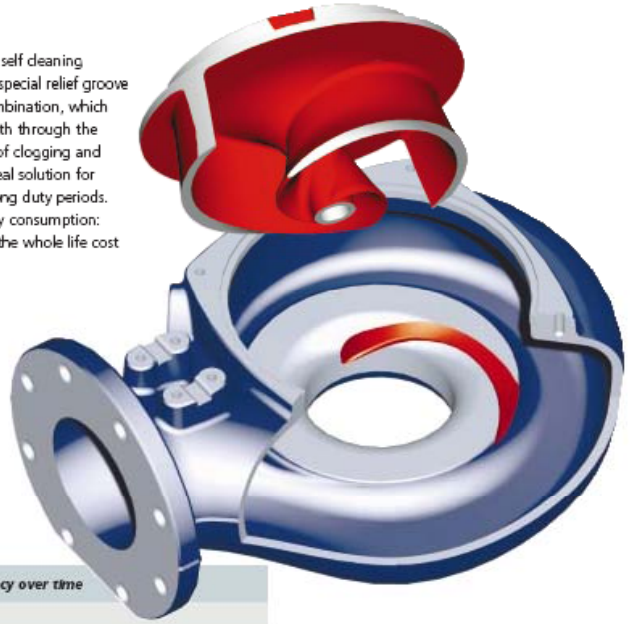
Renovate 7 pump stations, replace 15 old pumps with those guaranteed to reduce energy consumption by 20%.

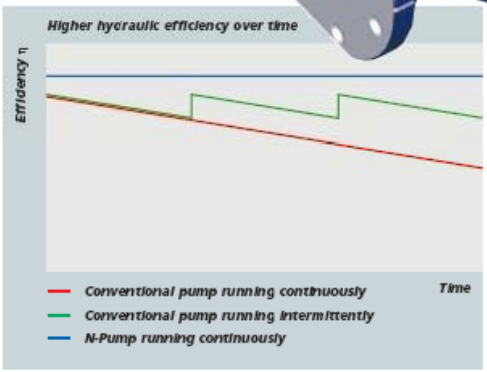
Due to patented impeller design, this pump guarantees less clogging which leads to greater efficiencies.

Manufacturer guarantees a 20% reduction in energy costs.

Sustained higher hydraulic efficiency

The revolutionary design of the self cleaning impeller is complemented by a special relief groove in the volute. This patented combination, which provides a self-cleaning flow path through the pump, greatly reduces the risk of clogging and makes the N-Pump series an ideal solution for high-efficiency pumping over long duty periods. That means lower overall energy consumption: a significant factor in reducing the whole life cost of your pumping operation.





The red line in the graph shows how the efficiency decreases when a conventional wastewater pump in continuous operation gets clogged.

The green line shows how a conventional wastewater pump that runs intermittently also has a generally low efficiency due to clogging. Temporary efficiency gains may be achieved through back flushing of the pump.

The blue line shows the N-Pump.

Project Report for DWSRF Project No. DW212-0003
Vineyard Street Waterline Replacement
(DWS Job No. 02-023)

Project Needs & Benefits

There is a significant need to replace pipelines to reduce water main breaks in the area, improve the reliability of water service and fire protection, and ensure water quality in various areas on Maui. The new pipeline will improve energy efficiency through the replacement of distribution lines to reduce friction losses and reduce the energy needed to pump water through the distribution system. The new pipeline will also improve water efficiency through the replacement of distribution lines to reduce water losses through leaks in the distribution system.

Project Description

The project involves the replacement of an existing 6-inch waterline with approximately 2,700 linear feet of new 12-inch ductile iron pipe, including fire hydrants, service laterals and appurtenances along Vineyard Street from Main Street to Market Street, in Wailuku, Maui, Hawaii.

Alternatives Considered

Besides the water system improvements, the only other alternative considered was no action.

Alternative Selected

The plan to improve the water system was selected since no action would leave the area prone to water main breaks, water service interruptions, and potentially impairing water quality.

Cost Information

The estimated construction cost of the project is $2,000,000.

Impact on Drinking Water

This project will improve the reliability of water service and fire protection and ensure water quality to this part of the system.
