The proposed Revision 1 to the RH-SIP contains federally enforceable permit limits to address requirements of the RHR to: 1) improve visibility on the most impaired days and 2) ensure no visibility degradation occurs on the clearest days for each Class I area in the state (Haleakala National Park on Maui Island and Hawaii Volcanoes National Park on Hawaii Island). These goals and the long-term strategies for achieving those goals are included in the RH-SIPs covering each ten-year period up to 2064. Hawaii has committed to implementing its long-term strategy to improve visibility by including fuel switching to ultra-low sulfur diesel, add-on air pollution controls, and other requirements to shut down units during and after this second regional haze planning period.

Hawaii's proposed RH-SIP, Revision 1 for the second planning period (2018-2028) and associated appendices can be found at the following link:
