Department of Public Safety:
Neighbor Island Jail Mass Testing Begins with Staff
PSD’s Health Care Division is continuing to work with DOH to conduct mass testing for COVID-19 at all correctional facilities statewide. The broad-based testing at the neighbor island jails is beginning with staff members. The Kaua’i Community Correctional Center staff have already been tested by the DOH Kaua'i District Health Office. All 53 staff test results were negative. PSD Deputy Director for Administration/Acting Director Maria Cook said, "The jail staff are being tested first so we can make sure they are cleared and ready to assist when it's time to begin inmate testing in the neighbor island jail facilities. Transient, pre-trial jail populations are very different from sentenced prison populations. The overcrowded conditions combined with the constant intake and release in the jail system present a unique set of challenges and requires thorough staffing, operational and logistical planning between DOH, PSD and the jail facilities before inmate testing can begin."

The order of the facilities next in line for inmate testing is being worked out. The Halawa Correctional Facility is also undergoing staff testing this week with the help of the Hawai'i National Guard. PSD and DOH are continuing mass testing of O'ahu Community Correctional Center (OCCC) inmates to mitigate the spread of the virus in the incarcerated population. One OCCC inmate test result received Monday was negative. There are currently no inmates hospitalized. The total number of inmates who have recovered increased to 307. There was one new positive OCCC staff test result reported today. Total PSD staff recoveries increased to 83. <http://dps.hawaii.gov/blog/2020/03/17/coronavirus-covid-19-information-and-resources/>
