Governor's Office:

Hawai'i Expands Pre-Travel Testing Program to South Korea

Gov. David Ige announced today that starting Friday, Feb. 5, travelers from South Korea may bypass mandatory 10-day quarantine if they take a COVID-19 test and receive a negative result from a trusted testing partner in South Korea. The test must be taken no earlier than 72 hours prior to departure.

In addition to the state's program, effective January 26, 2021 the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is requiring proof of a negative COVID-19 test or documentation of having recovered from COVID-19 for all air passengers arriving from a foreign country to the United States.

"The pre-travel testing program is just one layer of the state's comprehensive Safe Travels Hawai'i program, which has served us well in protecting our residents and visitors. We are excited to safely welcome back travelers from South Korea," said Gov. Ige.

The Consulate General of the Republic of Korea in Honolulu welcomed the launch of this program, saying that it will contribute to expanding people to people exchanges between South Korea and Hawai'i while taking necessary safety measures.

The following four trusted testing partners in Korea have been approved as of today:

- Yonsei University Health System, Severance Hospital, <https://sev.severance.healthcare/sev>
- Kangbuk Samsung Hospital, www.kbsmc.co.kr
- Inha University Hospital, www.inha.com

Hawai'i State Legislature:

Health Department Informs Legislature of Planned Vaccinations

Members of the Hawai'i State Legislature are set to receive their COVID-19 vaccinations tomorrow. Under the State's vaccination plan, all legislative employees working in the Hawai'i State Capitol fall under Phase 1b (individuals essential to government operations). The vaccinations will be issued through a DOH approved "point of distribution" (POD) at the Capitol. There are approximately 500 legislative employees. To view more:

Hawai'i State Judiciary:

Chief Justice Delivers State of the Judiciary Address

In a joint session of the State Legislature today, Chief Justice Mark E. Recktenwald highlighted the impacts of the coronavirus pandemic on courts and the judicial system. This is a portion of his address:

"To Governor Ige and Lt. Governor Green, thank you for your abiding support and that of your team. Time and again during the COVID-19 pandemic, we have relied on the expertise and assistance of the Executive Branch to protect everyone in our courthouses, and we deeply appreciate it.

"On behalf of the Judiciary, our hearts go out to all those who lost loved ones or suffered other hardships due to the pandemic. Thank you to all of the healthcare workers and frontline responders who have worked tirelessly to keep us all safe.

"The pandemic has forced us all to face challenges that we never could have expected a year ago. While the pandemic seemed to bring our society to a halt, the conflicts that our courts resolve didn't go on lockdown. Indeed, some – such as domestic violence and sexual exploitation – have likely intensified.

"So we've had to craft new ways to provide justice safely. Courts are traditionally places where many people, sometimes hundreds, come together in person. Obviously, that couldn't continue, so we turned to technology to hold court hearings remotely. As a result, we have reinvented the way justice is administered. This transformation has made us more accessible to the public and will undoubtedly shape the way we do business in the future.

“At the same time, we could not let the pandemic derail the vital work of improving our justice system and building public trust and confidence in the courts.”
