o a Concussed student athlete recover?

From a concussion is not an easy task for anyone, especially in the population. Unlike other injuries, concussions can affect all aspects of an individual's life, not just their athletic performance. Symptoms may be triggered or worsened by everyday activities, such as phone use, T.V./screen use, reading, writing, driving the car, and even having a conversation. It is important to assist the concussed individual's recovery that an effective treatment plan be followed, incorporating clear behavior guidelines to return the concussed individual safely back to their life routine, return to school and finally safely return to ✔ During halftime of a very physical championship basketball game, your starting point guard, Kalani, tells you he has a headache and feels "a little dizzy." He did hit the floor a few times but he got up quickly and continued to play with no obvious problems. There are no medical staff present at this game. Kalani should be able to return to play since he said he didn't hit his head and feels like he can continue to play.
