When

Dates: Monday, April 3 - Friday, April 14, 2017

Audience

State- and local-level substance abuse prevention practitioners

Description

This moderated online course addresses the role and application of ethics in substance abuse prevention. Using cases and interactive activities, participants will explore the six standards in the Prevention Code of Ethics and learn to use a 4-step decision-making process to assess, address, and evaluate a range of ethical issues. In addition, five discussion forums, facilitated by an experienced course moderator, provide opportunities for participants to apply lessons learned.

What Does Participation Entail?

- Logging on to the course Web site at least once a day, at your convenience
- Reviewing course materials
- Completing online activities designed to help you apply what you have learned
- Participating in moderated, Web-based discussions (i.e., responding to discussion questions, reviewing the responses of fellow participants, and responding to at least one of their comments)

Accreditation

This course is endorsed by the International Certification and Reciprocity Consortium (IC&RC) for Prevention Specialist certification or re-certification. On passing the assessment at the end of this course (80% correct), participants will receive a Certificate of Completion which they can submit to their respective credentialing authorities.
